

Workplace Support has been a Mission partner with Vitae for over 50 years.

We started as one organisation, working across both islands. Over time this has shifted into a collaborative partnership with Vitae focusing on providing services to the North Island and Workplace Support focusing on the South Island.

Together, we have an increased capacity to support workplaces with employees spread across the country, in times of high demand or when responding to clients with complex requirements.

Alongside our national network of clinicians, staff supporters and trauma responders, our partnership enables us to streamline our approach and provide a cohesive service to clients.

Although we are separate organizations, the heart of our joint mission to provide support to those that needs, remains a strong common thread that unites us in this important work.
